

What is copyright

Copyright - personal non-property and property rights of the author. Copyright and related rights protect the rights of authors, artists, musicians, artists, broadcasters and other creators in their literary or artistic works and works.

Copyright extends to both published (published, published, published, publicly performed, publicly shown) and unpublished works that exist in any objective form:

- written (manuscript, typescript, musical notation and the like);
- oral (public utterance, public performance and the like);
- sound or video recordings (mechanical, digital, magnetic, optical, and the like);
- images (drawing, sketch, picture, plan, drawing, film, television, video or photo frame and the like);
- three-dimensional (sculpture, model, layout, construction and the like)
- other forms.

Types of copyright objects

Works that are subject to copyright

1. Objects of copyright are:

- literary works;
- dramatic and musical-dramatic works;
- script works;
- choreography and pantomime works;
- musical works with or without text;
- audiovisual works;
- works of painting, sculpture, graphics and other works of fine art;
- works of applied art;
- works of architecture, urban planning, design and landscape gardening art;
- photographic works and works obtained by methods analogous to photography;
- maps, plans, sketches, illustrations and three-dimensional works related to geography, topography and other sciences;
- computer programs;
- other works.

2. Protection of computer programs applies to all types of computer programs (including operating systems) that can be expressed in any language and in any form, including source text and object code.

3. Objects of copyright also include:

- derivative works (translations, adaptations, annotations, abstracts, summaries, reviews, performances, musical arrangements and other processing of works of science, literature and art);

- collections (encyclopedias, anthologies, databases) and other composite works, which are the result of creative work in the selection and (or) arrangement of materials.

Derivative and composite works are protected by copyright regardless of whether the works on which they are based or which they include are subject to copyright.

Fee

№ п/п	Name of works and services in the field of rights on objects protected by copyright	Fee (in tenge including VAT)
		Fee	For applicants belonging to the preferential category of persons, in accordance with paragraph 1 of Art. 9-2 of the Law of the Republic of Kazakhstan “On Copyright and Related Rights”*
1	For entering information into the state register of rights to objects protected by copyright	3 MCI	5% of 3 MCI
2	Issuance of certificates based on entered information	5 750,00	290,00

 Note: If one of the applicants does not belong to a preferential category and is not a pensioner, payment is made at 100%